Thank You...

This year again, we would like to thank our Millbury Police Department for having a Christmas dinner for the elderly. The service was wonderful, and so was the food.

Santa came with gifts for all of us.

When they say police are one of the finest, our Millbury police sure are.

Thank You.

Thank You...

The Millbury Public Library takes this opportunity to thank all the people that remembered the library this Holiday Season with their thoughtful cards and many sweet treats. A special "thanks" to Jane Pojani for the beautiful wreath that graces our front door this holiday season. A big "thank you" to Chief Tom Nault too, for his reading of the Night Before Christmas and to Tim Graves of Oxford for being such a great Santa to all the kids at the library.

In 1988, the library has been fortunate enough to have many committed volunteers to assist in various library activities. J.D. and Jean Despard are two of our steadfast adult volunteers that have come through for us many times throughout the year. Our thanks goes out to them and others that have helped us through the year. Thanks also to the many children who pitch in to help out in the children's room each week.

Home Study Request Tops Meeting Discussion

By Edward J. Cooney

MILLBURY - The last School Committee meeting of the 1988 year was preceded by a picture taking session of the full committee for the Senior Class Yearbook.

Chairman Hanratty opened the meeting at 7:30 with a call for approval of regular and executive session minutes for December 7. The committee approved acceptance on a 5-0 vote with executive session minutes to be held.

Policy Manual

A third reading of the School Committee Policy Manual was voted after a question of holding off the final reading was posed by Committeewoman Jane Pojani. Pojani asked for clarification on the effect a request for a letter from Town Counsel concerning School Committeeman Pease's participation in negotiations might have on a section of the manual.

Committee member Alan Tuttle said there appeared to be no problem as the request for counsel's interpretation followed procedures in the policy manual.

Writing Committee

In the absence of Dr. David Troughton, Curriculum Coordinator, Superintendent Dr. Alfred Sylvia gave a brief report on the systemwide Writing Committee. Sylvia reported that the committee has met twice, and said they are moving towards an effective writing program.

According to Sylvia, the writing program will begin in Grade 2, at which time a folder will begin on each student which will include samples and a composite of their writing. This folder will follow the students throughout the system in order to establish writing standards and consistency in teaching to the standards.

The committee, made up of staff from primary, elementary, middle and high school levels, will be reporting to all teachers and will also examine and study writing programs of other school systems.

According to Sylvia, a policy statement will be presented to the School Committee before March, 1989.

Tuttle remarked that in speaking with "older" teachers, it appears that too many "dittos" are being used and that it might be more appropriate if students wrote more by copying words and material from the blackboards.

Sylvia responded that there are efforts to encourage the use of essay type answers on tests rather than multiple choice type questions. "Teachers are more conscious of doing that," Sylvia said. He also emphasized that writing will be a part of all disciplines throughout the system.

PSAT Results

Sylvia briefly reported on PSAT results for this year, indicating that results were in the average range but not as good as last year's. According to Sylvia, several students who were not enrolled in college courses also took the test which could have had an effect on test scores overall.

Home Study Request

Sylvia then spoke to the issue of a home study request from a parent. He told the committee that he had spoken to the mother in question and she indicated that the home study program she was using was a "college type program." According to Sylvia, he has not been informed as yet as to the amount of time that the daughter will spend in her studies.

"I don't know how strong I can be," Sylvia said. "She (the daughter) will be leaving school at the end of January. It is the mother's prerogative as long as the Home Study courses meet requirements. To date there has been no further contact from the mother."

In reply to a question from Hanratty on whether the student is considered absent, Sylvia replied that since the home study program has n[ot] been approved she could be considered truant. [He] said that he would explore all avenues until [the] program is approved. "I could go to the home w[ith a] police officer," Sylvia said.

Hanratty said, "Go after the parent. Ma[ke] her fully aware we will go the distance. We can't get lackadaisical and set a precedent."

Sylvia also explained that the home study course is from an Illinois based institution and that High School Principal Daniel Carmody has not granted approval of the course.

According to Sylvia, Carmody has seen a list of courses but knows no more than that. No one has seen the material or the number of hours of study.

Sylvia also said that the student in question was doing poorly in school and had low self esteem.

Committeeman Ed Wilczynski suggested that Sylvia check with the Massachusetts Department of Education to be sure that the home study course by the Illinois based institution is approved by the state.

Center School

Suzanne Pierce, Business Manager, reported that the Selectmen have requested figures on fuel consumption at the Center School while the building was used as a school. She said that it would take some digging and research and that she would undertake the project. Several members of the committee agreed to tour the building next week.

Awaiting Opinion

Sylvia reported that he has not yet received a written opinion from either town counsel or Attorney Broadhurst concerning a possible conflict of interest issue pertaining to member Pease's status in the negotiation process with teachers.

Annual Report

The School Committee's first draft of its annual report for the Town Report was distributed to committee members for their review.

Wilczynski suggested that congratulatory remarks be included for the U.S. History Honors Class that represented Millbury and the State this past year in Washington D.C.

Under Appointments, the committee oved Sylvia's recommendation to appoint ael Kernych to substitute for Business Teacher onna Saucier who will be on a half year sabbatical.

The committee also approved the appointments of Carol Fotos and Diane Paluses to work on Early Childhood curriculum.

Test Results

Sylvia reported that the Iowa Test results had improved over the last test taking, but not dramatically. He also said the he was awaiting the results of the recent basic skills tests.

School Secretaries

According to Sylvia, a letter has been received from the school secretaries who wish to meet with the school committee concerning bargaining. The committee agreed to meet with them at the 2nd meeting in January.

Signing Payroll

The committee unanimously approved the appointment of Jane Pojani as the designated person to sign the school system's payroll. Tuttle announced that he would no longer be able to perform that task.

At 8:25, the committee began their first review of the preliminary budget for 1989-90. Following the review, they moved to executive session to discuss collective bargaining.

HALLELUIA! and Praise the Lord!...Guess Who's Back and on the Job? - 'Tis only me from over the sea, said Barnicle Bill the Sailor! O.K., enough of this silliness, let's get with it!

'T'AIN'T FUNNY McGee! We entered the hospital the 5th of December, had the "grand opening of the thumper" on the 6th, and have been moaning and complaining ever since! And I thought hemorrhoids were difficult - painful! Friends, you ain't seen nothin' yet! Believe you me, it was quite an experience. Wish I had a videotape of all the goings on, then you'd believe me!

WOULD YOU permit me to give you some "highlights!," a "synopsis," a "book report" of what went on? Believe it or not, there were many serious moments; and as many comical, lighter moments. May we proceed to tell you about it?

DAY ONE - WE WERE made ready, "prepped," the night of admittance for the grand opening the next day. We do not remember, or care to remember, what transpired late Monday evening into Tuesday, the whole day.

WE awakened, I believe, in the Recovery Room sometime Tuesday eve, spent a couple of days there. We do remember awakening; tubes protruding here, tubes protruding there, a little tube here, a big tube there, Old Mcdonald Had a Farm!...

NOW - A TEAR FELL! Many a tear fell me friends. Now we started feeling pain, aloneness, hurting here and there, a little depression set in. And the tears were flowing. We were sorta "embarrassed" by all this, but they say it was "quite normal" to feel that way. Lord! Where am I? What am I doing here? Did I do the right thing? How long will this pain last? All ye saints in heaven, help me kids, I'm a hurtin!...

FRIENDS, I Kid you not! Then and there I vowed to myself never to want to experience and go through this again; this part of my life I would want erased completely. I promised never to talk about it nor write about it. I just wanted to forget it, period. "Big Deal!," you say. Friends, for me it was a Big Deal. It was my chest they sawed through; it was my heart they were retubing; it was my leg into which they dug a canal that looked like the Panama. A 24-26 inch vein was removed to replace the damaged tubing around me heart! To me it was the "Biggest Deal!" of MY life!

I GUESS what really shook me up was when I was introduced to my roommate. He was stretched out in bed, his shirt open and one could see that chest incision that was made a few months back. I looked at that and said to myself, "You're next, Morin!" Good Grief!

AND NOW... How does that saying go: "Time Wounds all Heals!" No, not that one: "Time Heals all Wounds!" How true. Here it is the 20th of December, I'm home at the computer setting up this story, and tears are streaming down me kisser. Ya Big Dope!, Joe. You're not supposed to cry. It's not Macho! I don't care because they're tears of thanks, first to My Lord and God for seeing me through all this; tears of thanks to the surgeons-physicians for a job well done; tears of thanks to the nurses (overworked and underpaid) for doing their best under rough conditions; thanks to Fr. Walsh and Sister Sheila, and parishioners of St. Mark's in Sutton for their prayerful support, encouragement; to me sister Dolly and brother Dan, and Fred, we say God Bless and Keep You in the palm of His hands.

BITS 'N PIECES

Some Observations on Hospital Food, Incisions, Bed Pans, Sharing the John, Peace on Earth, Video....

ON HOSPITAL FOOD...in all honesty, the food I was presented with wasn't that bad, believe it or not. What made it unappetizing was what surrounded me as I tried to enjoy a meal....How can one enjoy a meal with someone's duppa staring at you from the other bed!...You try and look forward and you see a trash basket full of used hospital paraphernalia, if you know what I mean...you turn toward the window and you see bottles and pans, tissues and samples of you know what! This is not at all conducive to an enjoyable meal, so ya don't eat!

A LITTLE PUZZLING.... They took out a 24-25 inch vein from the right leg, what I can't figure out is did they use all of it around the heart or did they allow for waste and shrinkage! That's a lotta vein!

LET THERE BE PEACE on Earth...and let it begin as one recuperates from an operation. The biggest and most difficult problem to overcome, and I suppose all of us have been through it, is to find a little peace and quiet after an operation!...But such was not the case. People talking in their sleep; radios and tape recorders being played way after hours; people in the hallway playing miniature slot machine games while you're trying to sleep. Oh God! Did I pray for just one night of peace and quiet...IT GOT so bad one night that I literally crawled out of bed, took my blanket and pillow, and headed for the Chapel downstairs before I was caught and told to go back to my room and make dodo! What a joke that was!...THAT GUY talking in his sleep kept asking "Paul, where are you? Jim, are you there?" over and over again he kept repeating those names until I finally yelled out: "Paul married Jim, they both moved to Texas and are happy, now go to bed and clam up! He didn't say "boo" after that!

WHAT A REVOLTIN' development, position to be in. The saga of the plastic bedpan. Here you are, you're all bandaged from head to toe, stiff as a board, full of needles and tubes and it's time for the bedpan. The nurse comes in, hands it to you, and says, "Joseph, you're on your own!" Good Grief! How cruel, how inhumane, how cold!...To top it all off, it was a false alarm!...Gone are the days when the cute little nurse would come up to you, baby you, give you a backrub, straighten out your pillow! No way, Jose! Dem days are gone, gone. You is on your own!

DOWN BY THE Old Mill Stream!...Another episode was when I finally got off the bottle (if you know what I mean) and was on my own to go to the john. But the big problem was that it was always being used by the good people next door. Two elderly women with bladder problems....Back to the bottle!

THE PATTY WAGON....Every four hours, a young lady avec wagon would drop by to give me inhalation therapy. Breathe some chemical for five minutes, then she would shout "Roll Over Morin," time, for pitter patter time. She would start with the tapping, with a Jamaican beat. Your chest, lungs, side. Now that hurt! It's a good thing she didn't use a polka beat, tempo. It could only happen to me!

FINALLY, friends, with all my belly aching and complaining, I think of the gent that was admitted after I left. He would be going through the same operation as I the following day, but the big difference would be that he has emphysema; is he going to suffer. God be with him! I also think of the earthquake in Armenia, how they suffered; I think of Flight 103 that crashed in Scotland. I pray for them! And I complain! How minuscule was my predicament compared to theirs!...

AGAIN, many thanks to all for your prayers and encouragement. To my family and friends I say, "God Love You All, and May He Bless You all in the coming year!" Without family, friends, you have nothing.

ALL RIGHT good people, I guess you have had enough of my blarney. I just want to say hello to Hazel Able in Clearwater, Florida who reads our column, we hope. Hazel is still able. Right on!, Hazel. We love you!

God's Peace be with you all; may your mornings be bright, afternoons be sun-filled; nights be cool in the Lord!

Have a Good Year. Keep God in your Hearts and a smile on your face. What could go wrong? Love ya's All.

Your Friend,

Joe Morin

On The Shelf

By Rosemary Waltos

January 4 is the day that both Jacob Grimm and General Tom Thumb were born. It's also Jane Wyman's (the former Mrs. Reagan) and Don Shula's (football coach for the Miami Dolphins) birthdays. Around the Millbury Public Library, January 4 is Trivia Day. It's the day for all those who know all sorts of facts and/or have doctorates in "uselessology."

This year, the library has prepared a fitting tribute with a trivia puzzler for readers to mull over. Below is a sampling of questions you may never ask yourself, but we have. Answers to these trivia questions will be available on January 4 at the library.

TRIVIA DAY 1989

1. Who was Chester Arthur?

Sutton Recreation Commission Announces Funding Request Deadline

SUTTON - The Recreation Commission will submit a budget request that represents the recreational needs of the town. This request to the Town Administrator and Finance Committee will be for FY90, beginning July 1, 1989. The deadline for submission to the town is January 28, 1989.

If your organization or group intends to make a funding request from Recreation, you must file on or before January 16, 1989.

The Recreation Commission is currently updating its Five Year Recreational Plan. In order that the plan truly represents the recreational activities and needs of Sutton residents, the Commission is again requesting specific data from residents. To be considered for funding, this data must be fully provided. Your request for funding must include the following:

1. A detailed narrative description of the recreational activity provided.
2. Age ranges and the sex of your participants.
3. Amount of request and a breakdown on how you propose to utilize the funds. The Commission only reimburses for services already provided, i.e. referee fees, transportation expenses, equipment. Equipment purchased with town funds becomes the property of the town. The Commission will expect periodic inventories of equipment owned by the town and utilized by your group.
4. The number of Sutton residents participating in your program and a roster of verifiable names and Sutton addresses. This information will be held confidential and returned to you after each program ends. No copies will be made.
5. A narrative statement that participation in your recreational program is open to all Sutton residents in the ages and sex groups that you serve.
6. If your recreational program now serves the physically or mentally handicapped, or intends to do so in the future, please address this with a narrative statement.
7. Optional: if you are aware of a recreational need for any age that you feel is not being addressed, the Commission would appreciate your comments and suggestions.

Your request for funding must be accompanied by your last available business financial statement as prepared by an accountant (when applicable), your current income and expense accounts (when applicable), and lastly, your anticipated income and expense budget for FY90 - July 1989 to June 30, 1990.

The Recreation Commission will review all requests for inclusion in the total town budget. Awarding of funds beginning in July 1989 will continue to be based on financial need and the quality recreational service you provide to Sutton residents.

If you have any questions on the above, feel free to call any member of the Recreation Commission.

Edmund J. Wrenn, Treasurer
